

Incredible photos and video of Oregon's new football facility

Phil Knight's masterpiece has arrived.

by Peter Berkes Jul 31, 2013, 10:00am EDT

And this is just the locker room.

Oregon's new football facility has finally been completed, and yes, it's just as crazy as you have heard. The $68 million, 145,000-square foot facility funded by Phil Knight has been described as, "Darth Vaderish Death Star," "A little elitist," and "...a little bit too much in the intimidating direction," but it's impossible to say it's not an impressive facility.

Here's a closer look at some of the features.

The building lobby

Includes 64 55" televisions that can be linked together to show one image, or all show something different. Absurd on a multitude of levels.

The team cafeteria

The locker room

The barber shop

The team meeting room

The head coach's office

The coaches' hot tub.
Yes, Oregon coaches have their own hot tub.

The weight room

The coaches' war room

Here's the full gallery, courtesy of GoDucks.com: